

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

IN VACATION.

---

Rastus was in the toils again for chicken stealing, and this time the efforts of his lawyers were unavailing.

"Have you anything to offer the court before sentence is passed?" asked the judge.

"No, sah, yer honor," said Rastus, "ah had five dollars, but mah lawyer dun tuk it!"—Puck.

---

Heading Him Off.—"This law is a queer business."

"How so?"

"They swear a man to tell the truth."

"What then?"

"And every time he shows signs of doing it, some lawyer objects."

—Detroit Free Press.

---

Future Business.—"The judge assigned me to defend a poor man without fee. Said that young lawyers could afford to do this, as it might lead to future business."

"All true."

"I'll have to wait a long time for any future business from that client, however. The judge then proceeded to give him twenty years."—Courier-Journal.

---

BOOK REVIEWS.

---

All book reviews are by the Editor-in-Chief unless otherwise expressly stated.

---

Cases on the Law of Evidence—Selected from Decisions of English and American Courts. By Edward W. Hinton, Professor of Law in the University of Chicago. American Casebook Series. William R. Vance, General Editor. St. Paul, West Publishing Company. 1919.

In this age of case law, case books become almost absolutely essential and we have found that the American Casebook Series, commencing with Mikell's Cases on Criminal Law, issued December, 1908 has been followed by a most admirable series now running into a number of volumes. While intended primarily for the use of the student we have found them almost of equal importance to the practitioner. The present volume, upon a very important subject seems in every way worthy of the series. We do not believe it could be improved upon for the student; and for the practitioner it furnishes leading cases in which the very gist of the law is given. We recommend it very highly.